Going to Staunton's Good Schools-Testing Smokeless Powder.

(Correspondence of The Disputch.) OLD POINT COMFORT, VA., Sept 9.-Those Pan-American doctors now in ser sion at Washington having expressed a desire to inspect one of our quarantine passed last night at Black Craig Castle stations, Secretary Carlisle telegraphed where Mr. Gladstone is taking a holiday yesterday to the Revenue Cutter Colfax to proceed to New Castle, Del., to take them aboard for a visit to Reedy Island. She left shortly after noon, and will reach there about 8 o'clock this morning. The school question is now the all-important subject among the young people. Unfortunately there are no good schools at the Point, except for small children, and the residents have to send to some other point for these advantages. On Wednesday next, Mrs. A. C. Pike will leave with her daughter, Miss Georgene, and the three daughters of Mrs. Harrison Phoebus, for Stmanton, Va., where they will be placed in charge of the admirable school presided over by Mrs. General Stuare. reach there about $ o'clock this morning. ### GLADSTONE'S COURSE

What Will the British Liberal Premier Do Now?

DISPATCHES TO THE QUEEN.

Her Majesty's Views Will Weigh Much With the Grand Old Man-General Foreign News.

(By cable to the Dispatch.) LONDON, ENG., Sept. 9 .- Sir Henry Ponsonby, the Queen's private secretary, where Mr. Gladstone is taking a holiday with Mrs. Gladstone and a party of friends. This morning he and the Prime Minister had a long interview, and before noon Sir Henry left with a special dis patch from Mr. Gladstone to the Queen oncerning the government's attitude to wards the defeat of the Home Rule bill in the House of Lords last evening. Sir Henry was conveyed in all haste from Black Craig Castle to the railway station, where an express train was stopped to take him on board and carry him to Bal instance, but at the suggestion of Mr. Gladstone two days ago.

The Queen is known to have awaited with unwonted anxiety Mr. Gladstone's decision as to the course after the rejection of the bill by the Lords. The Royal idea is that Gladstone should appeal at ence to the country, and the determination which is understood to have been expressed by Mr. Gladstone, in his special dispatch, to hold on indefinitely will not suit Her Majesty at all. According to constitutional proceedings the Queen cersuit Her Majesty it all. Actions constitutional proceedings the Queen certainly had some reason to expect that in view of the overwhelming majority of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in condemnation the aged Premier would resign, or ask the electors again to justify his policy.

It is surmised that Mr. Gladstone intl It is surmised that Mr. Gladstone intimated in the dispatch carried to Balmoral to-day the readiness of the Cabinet to submit to the Queen's prerogative to dismiss her present ministers. This intimimation would mean little, however, as he knows he can rely on the Queen's discretion to take no step involving the Crown in the popular outery against the House of Lords.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

It was the annual meeting of the club.
Officers were elected for the ensuing year
as follows: President, Evan Snead;
First Vice Pesident, R. H. Boykin; Second Vice President, Eugene Walton;
Third Vice President, F. A. French; Secretary, P. H. C. Cabell; Treasurer, B. A.
Jacobs, Sergeant-at-Arms, Robert R.
Dalston.

The president made a short speech in acknowledging his gratitude for the honor paid him in his re-election. He spoke of the good work done in the past by this old organization, and of its splendid finan-cial and numerical condition. He closed with an appeal for each and every ember to stand firm and do his duty i the pending campaign.

CRITICISED THE COMMITTEE. Mr. Boykin, in accepting the First Vice Presidency, spoke in no uncertain way o the plan for formating characters the General Assembly recently adopted by the City Committee. He said that the 'mess carried on at the committee's meeting was absurd and rediculous. He offered a resolution that the committee be requested to rescind their action and fired a resolution and a requested to rescind their action and allow the nominations for the Legislature to be made by straight primary.

Mr. F. P. Burke opposed Mr. Boykin's measure. He said he was not a kicker, but had always been a straight primary man. The committee was our machine and if an eror in judgment had beer made, its action should be sustained. Mr. Caster agreed with Mr. Burke. H. thought it would be a reflection upon the committee to adopt such a resolution. ADOPTED.

Mr. Snead, while preferring a straight primary, remarked that he deemed it injudicious at the time for any Democratic club to in any way dictate to the committee what it should do.

Mr. Burke offered as an amendment that while the club did not approve the plan adopted by the City Central Committee it deemed it inexpedient to request plan adopted by the City Central Com-mittee, it deemed it inexpedient to request or instruct it as to what steps it should pursue in the premises. This was lost, and Mr. Boykin's resolution agreed to. After the transaction of some unim-portant business the club adjourned.

When the death of the subject of this sketch occurred on the fourth of this month, at his residence, the County of Charlotte, and especially the community of which he had lived, suffered a loss of a useful man and a valuable citizen. (his years, seventy-two years, two months and twenty-one days) having been born, and had his home at the same place all of his life.

He was the eldest son of Jennings M. Jeffress, who before the '40's was High Sheriff, of Charlotte county, for twenty-seven, years, and also a merchant of Red Oak Grove. Over half a century ago, Albert succeeded his father in the mercantile business, and has without interruption conducted successfully the business at the same place. He was the oldest continuous merchant in all this section of the State. He had been postmaster at the same office for nearly fifty years. Before the late war, he was special partwith Ginton, Alvey & Arents, in Richmond, and since the war with Ginter, Colquitt & Co., bankers, in New York, but still resided at his home.

By nature and training, he was preeminently a business man; not only in the conduct of his own affairs, but in the management of numerous vast estates committed to his care he cxhibited wonderful financial prudence and sagacity. He possessed a quiet demeanor, quickness of diacernment, promptness in action, practical knowledge of human nature, and parfect system about all of his matters. He was especially noted for the faculty of electing information about business forms, and imparting but little knowledge of his private affairs to others. Parents were aiways eager to entrust their boys to him with a view of making them business men. He had great confidence in the recuperation and development of this section of Virginia, and was the largest land-ewner of his county. In Charlotte, Macklesburn, Halifax, and Lunenburg, he owned nearly 10,000 acres, and also hundreds of acres in Missisippi. He thought an inheritance of valuable lands by his children would prove safer and more remunerative than stocks, bonds, and securities of uncertain and fletitious values.

At his home he was generous and hospitable. He had been a member of Anticeh Baptist Church, situated within one mile of his residence, for fifty-six years. He was truly the pillar of his church. In the Sunday school and councils of his church his wishes and suggestions were the guide of his brethren. Ample pecuniary assistance was freely bestowed by him whenever occasion required. When he told the minister his salary would be promptly paid, nothing more was necessary. His loss to his church and moral

An appropriate and impressive funeral ceremony was conducted at his church, to which he was so devoted, by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Halifax.

The church wis filled with his neighbors, relatives and friends, and the sallery and doors crowded with his old servants and colored people of the comunity, who manifested their respect and grief for their departed benefactor.

He is dead, but his memory lives in the hearts of those who knew him best. He was interred in the old family cemetery near the grave of his father.

His life was one radient with brightness and usefulness. His sun has set, not behind a darkened west, but one effulgent with rays of beauty, and leaving for all the twilight of a shining example.

Full of years, blest with the rewards of honest toil, soothed in his declining years with the promises of his Saviour, and crowned with the condidence and love of his fellow men, he goes down to his grave, "Like one that draws the drapery of the couch about him and lies down to
